

Exercise Exercise Exercise THE 49TH FIGHTER WING HAS BEEN ORDERED TO DEPLOY TO THE CENTCOM AREA OF RESPONSIBILITY IN ORDER TO PREPARE FOR FUTURE CONTINGENCIES AS MAY DEVELOP.

HOLLOMAN TAKES ON ORE PHASE I

Photo by retired Spc. James Matise

An F-117A Nighthawk lands at its situational forward deployed location Wednesday during the 49th Fighter Wing Operational Readiness Exercise Phase I, an exercise deployment of more than 600 personnel, their equipment and a fleet of stealth fighters.

Photo by retired Spc. James Matise

Mr. Charles Turek, 49th Logistics Readiness Squadron motor vehicle operator, secures equipment to be hauled back to each squadron.

Photo by retired Spc. James Matise

Mr. Charles Turek, 49th Logistics Readiness Squadron motor vehicle operator, guides a forklift load of equipment onto a tractor-trailer bed.

Photo by Mr. Tom Fuller

Staff Sgt. William Coburn, 9th Aircraft Maintenance Unit bomb loader, makes an adjustment to a GBU-27 Paveway III 2,000-pound guided bomb after it was loaded into an F-117A Nighthawk Wednesday during the ORE Phase I. The 49th Fighter Wing began conducting 24-hour exercise deployment operations Monday to test the wing's ability to rapidly respond to any situation at any time in the world.

Photo by Mr. Tom Fuller

Staff Sgt. William Coburn, 9th AMU bomb loader, helps move a GBU-27 bomb under an F-117A.

Photo by Mr. Tom Fuller

Senior Airman Bianca Contway, 49th MOS, monitors aircraft regeneration progress from the wing Maintenance Operations Center.